

January 1, 2007

Tech-Knowledge Services to Mark Five Year Anniversary Providing Technology Solutions for Growing Businesses
Customer Service Focus & Tech Savvy Key to Successful Business Growth

Ashburn, Virginia (January X, 2007) – Tech-Knowledge Services (TK Services), LLC, a premier outsourced IT solutions provider for small to mid-sized businesses, to celebrate its five year anniversary in business successfully serving a growing client base with an expanding array of technical services. The company’s prowess and dedication to customer service has earned it a reputation as the most reliable resource for all things technical.

“It has been an amazing five years for us. We have quickly evolved from a start-up into an innovative technical solutions provider and outsourced IT department for hundreds of clients,” explained Ron Nielsen, President of Tech-Knowledge Services. “The demand for our services continually grows and although there are many other computer repair companies in the region, few offer an all-inclusive support resource or share our commitment to genuine customer service. Many of our clients have chosen us as their contracted CTO to benefit from our knowledge, experience and vendor relationships to simplify their technology environment.”

Recognizing the business community’s need for quick response to computer issues, Tech-Knowledge Services recently unveiled a remote solution that allows its technicians to resolve many technical problems from the corporate offices without the inconvenience of on-site service calls. Tech-Knowledge Services is leading this industry by example through the use of cutting-edge technology, unparalleled efficiency and a vision to rewrite the play book.

Tech-Knowledge Services is the non-geek alternative to resolving every problem that seems “too technical.” The company’s clients refer to them as “Life Support For The Non-Techie” because of the genuine dedication to customer service and unique ability to create customized solutions for home and business. Considered to be the one-stop resource for everything from computer repair and web development to server administration and networking, TK Services has emerged as a proven support alternative to using multiple high-cost, non-collaborative vendors.